Winston Churchill, author of "Richard Carvel," yesterday delivered an essay to the students of Smith Academy, of which as it was passed by that body, provided it becomes apparent that it is impolitic to attempt to amend it, but an effort will be made to ascertain whether the House will consent to any modification. Some of the Republican Senators think the bill should be so changed as to provide for the continued exemption from duty of the articles which were exempted by the President's order. They also find the House bill deficient in that it fails to provide any means of collecting duty which it imposes.

There will be a conference with members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House, and if the latter do not discourage amendments these will be offered. There is, however, an acknowledged fear that if the bill is amended in any respect it may be difficult, if not impossible, to secure its acceptance by the House on a conference report. I asked Dr. — what to take when I got so tired, and he said: 'A rest.'
I asked him today and he said: 'An Orangeine powder, which was like magic, but perfectly safe, as he had seen the formula, and knew just what was in it.' I took one three hours ago, and have been 'on wings' ever since."

Dr. Chas. C. Murphy, 632 31st Street, "Have given 'Orangeine' several trials in cases of severe beadache and dismenorrhoea and find it the ideal AUCTIONEERS.
